The Fusco name has been synonymous with cakes and desserts for over 50 years. It produces private label and own-brand desserts for the foodservice and retail industries.

In 2005, Fusco Foods purchased Connell's Irish Family Bakeries, thus creating Fusco Connell Foods, an organisation with two major constituent parts; a foodservice business and a supermarket multiple/retail food manufacturer. Both are located in Stillorgan Industrial Park, from where all manufacture takes place.

Fusco Foods produces a wide range of foodservice and retail products. Some of the most popular lines supplied throughout Ireland and parts of the UK include its Death by Chocolate (using rich dark chocolate), apple pies (using Armagh bramley apples), cheesecakes (using full fat cream cheese) and its award-winning handmade meringue roulades in various flavours from Irish cream liqueur to Sicilian lemon which are also gluten free.
