

JACK AND EDDIES

Company address

Carrowkennedy, Leenane Road,
Mayo

jackandeddies.com/index.html

Channels Supplied:

Retail

The O'Malley family farm has been in existence for five generations. Jack is fifth generation and Eddie, Jack's dad, is fourth generation.

The farm is nestled in the hills between Westport in Co. Mayo and Leenane, Co. Galway.

Eddie is a farmer at heart but has always been concerned with the difficulty of making a living from farming. With many locals interested in tasting the produce, Eddie decided to start making sausages. This allows Eddie to continue to make a living from the farm and give you a taste of the delicious produce. The farm is Bord Bia Certified and uses conventional farming techniques.

The farm has always been a family affair. Eddie, and his parents and many of the rest of the family work with the pigs everyday as did previous generations of the family. Jack & Eddie use a secret family recipe for their sausages and a traditional cure for rashers from only the best cuts of pork. You might wonder what Jack's role is....well, he plays around the farm and keeps the animals and everybody else happy!

Why Us

Eddie is a farmer at heart but has always been concerned with the difficulty of making a living from farming. With many locals interested in tasting the produce, Eddie decided to start making sausages. This allows Eddie to continue to make a living from the farm and give you a taste of the delicious produce. The farm is Bord Bia Certified and uses conventional farming techniques.

Our product range

Cured rashers

Pork sausages

Black & white pudding

Our Accreditations

- BRC
- HACCP
- Meat Processor Quality Assurance Scheme (MPQAS)
- Origin Green Verified

Our Awards

Blas na hÉireann 2019