In the early 1980's, school teacher Ronnie Wilson gave up teaching to create Monaghan Mushrooms. Over the last thirty years, the company has grown to become one of the largest mushroom producers in the world, serving some of the largest international retailers.

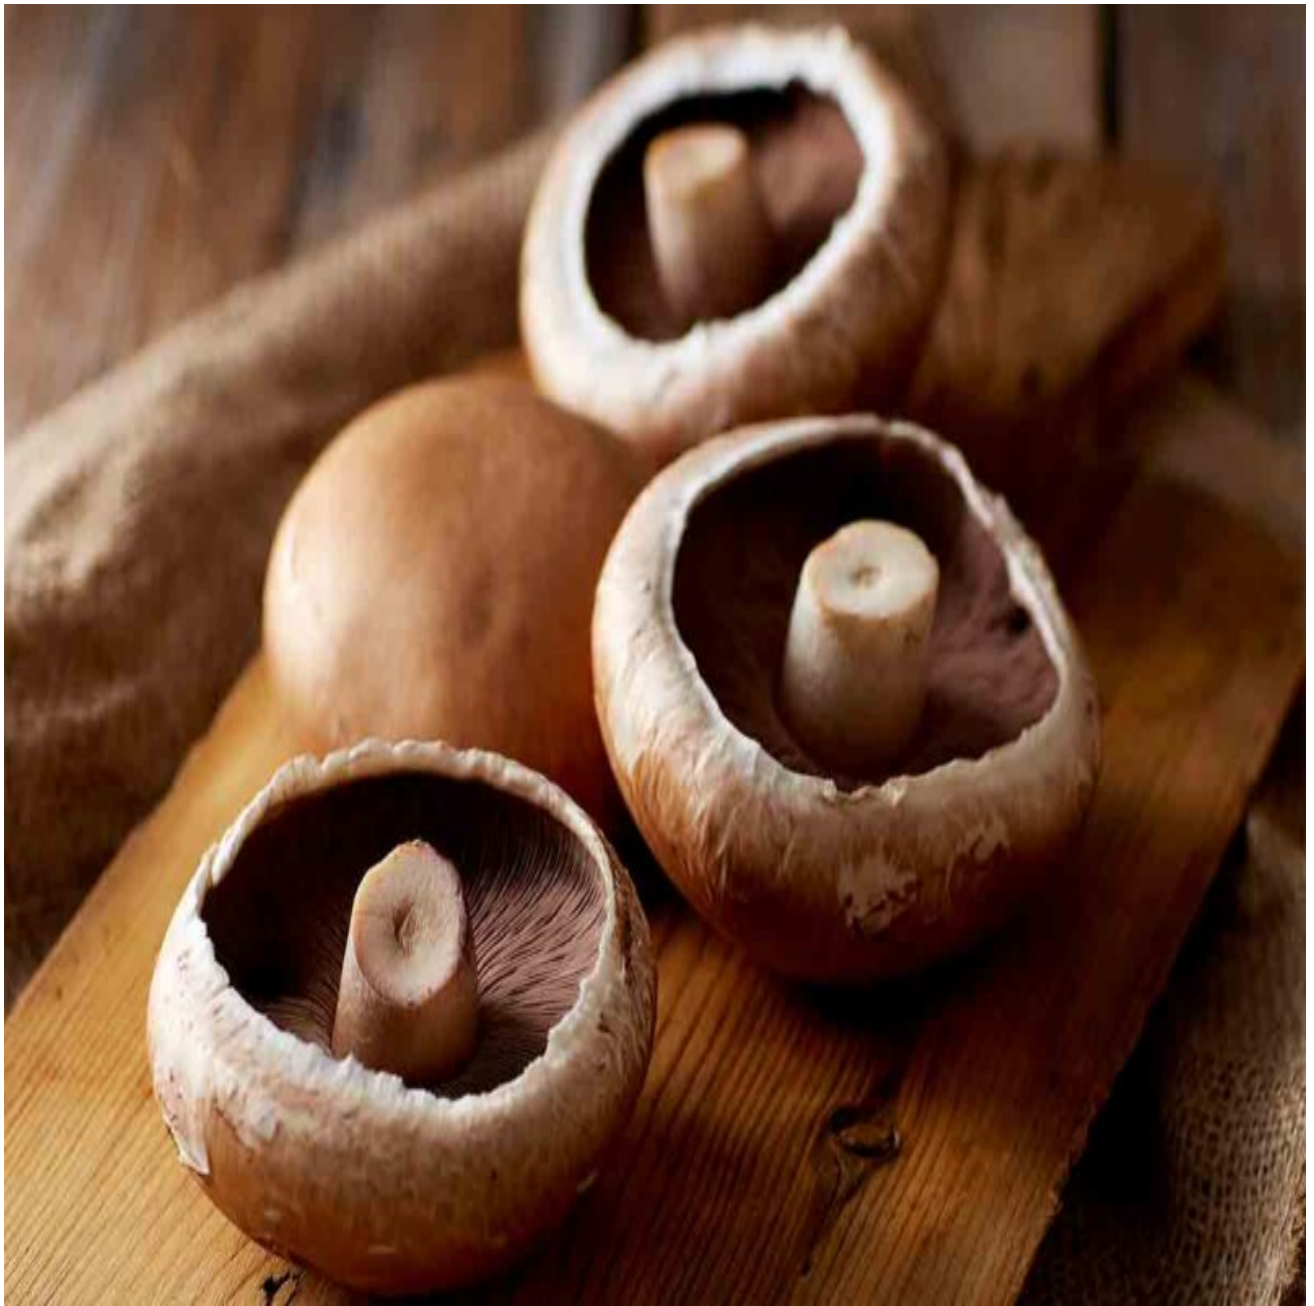

Driven by a passion to provide consumers with a fresh and high quality food, the company is involved in all aspects of growing mushrooms. We produce compost, grow, pack and deliver our mushrooms to customers in six countries. We're committed to leading the mushroom category, spreading knowledge about the benefits of mushrooms and investing in innovation and research.

Why Us

We are a customer focused fresh mushroom business who strive to achieve the highest quality in everything that we do. We build long term relationships with our customers. Our extensive Research and Development department are committed to bring research-led, commercially driven Innovation to our customers. Sustainability is central to how we operate. We are committed to continually finding new ways to reduce our environmental footprint.
